

Site-Selective C—H Oxidation for Late-Stage Functionalization

Christina White

University of Illinois Urbana-Campaign, USA
mcwhite7@illinois.edu

Discovery and development of iron, manganese, and palladium catalysts for selective, predictable, intermolecular C—H oxidation reactions. Elucidation of rules and underlying principles that enable predictable selectivity in complex settings. Application of these reactions at late-stages to streamlining and diversifying chemical synthesis.